Escapes From Asylum for Insane. George Brown, forty-two years old, was sent to the Washington Asylum Hospital from the Anacostla police station Saturday evening by the police for medical treat-ment, pending a decision as to where he will finally be sent. Police Officer Edward Stahl, who is stationed at Congress Heights, found Brown wandering about that place Saturday afternoon, apparently ill. The officer promptly conveyed him to the police station at Anacostia, and it was discovered that he was suffering from something rethat he was suffering from something resembling an epileptic seizure.

In response to questions he was able to state he had recently effected his escape from the Spring Grove Asylum for the Insane, Maryland, and that previous to his confinement in that institution he had been for five weeks in St. Elizabeth's Asylum.
From the latter place he had, he explained,
been discharged as cured, and a message
to the asylum confirmed this statement.
After escaping from the Maryland asylum
he had, he said, walked through the country to Forestville, Prince George's county, Md., where he spent some time in the pubilc almshouse. The night preceding his appearance at Congress Heights he passed in one of the city police stations as a lodger.

Brown was examined at the Anacostia station by a physician, upon whose cer-tificate he was conveyed to the hospital named. It is supposed, however, his case will be given further consideration. He is charged with being a fugitive from the Spring Grove Asylum.

Butler Robs His Employer of Articles Valued & $3,700.

The Property All Hecovered-Perpe trator of the Crime Makes a Confession to Police.

James F. Rooney, twenty-eight years old, a native of Southshields, England, was locked up last night by Detectives Weedon, Hartigan and Boyd on charges of robbing his employer, Mr. Charles A. Spaulding, whose home is at No. 1708 Rhode Island avenue. The prisoner was employed as butler in the house. Although he had been committing thefts for more than, a year, it was not until last week that his dishonesty was made known to his employer. Property taken from the house by Rooney is valued at about $3,700, and the detectives have recovered every piece of it. Detective McNamee assisted the others in recovering the property, and he also worked with them for two days while they were looking for Rooney. When placed under arrest last night the butler admitted his guilt.

"I took the things," he said, "and that is all there is to it."

"Are you going to take me up to the house tonight?" he asked the officers. "Is Mr. Spaulding very angry at me?"

He was not taken to the house, but the officers could not answer the latter question for him. After being interviewed at police headquarters Rooney was taken to the sixth precinct station and locked up for the night.

for the night.

Mr. Spaulding, the victim of the butler's depredations, is a wealthy hotel owner. He owns one theater in St. Louis and is the lessee of another. Rooney has been in this city a number of years, and during the past four years he has been in Mr. Spaulding's employ. Previous to this he worked in the houses of some of the most prominent residents of the northwest section. He was an efficient butler, and his employer had implicit confidence in him.

Rooney's Methods.

From time to time he was given various articles to pack away, and it was these tha Rooney disposed of. Pawn tickets for the valuables were afterward found in his room Among the articles taken was a chafin lish, worth $250, and two swords, wort dish, worth $250, and two swords, worth about $300. Pictures, embroidery, silver ware, ornaments of every description, and many articles which could not have been replaced, were included in the list of stolen property. Rooney was such a trusted servant that he had access to the whole house. His thefts might have been much greater, and he could have gone off with his plunder, had he so desired.

Although he had been carrying away the property for more than a year, it was not until his sudden departure from the Spaulding residence Friday that he was suspected of wrong doing. That night there was a dinner party at the house, and Rooney was directed to have certain silverware on the table. The articles specified were among the missing ones, and, knowing he could not produce them as directed, he disappeared about the time he was to look after the dinner.

The Search Made.

The officers were out Saturday night and all day yesterday searching for him. De tectives Helan and McNamee were in one section making a search, while Detectives Weedon, Boyd and Hartigan went in another direction. Rooney was traced from one point to another, principally among the saloons. At one place the officers were told he was a great beer drinker, having taken as many as twenty glasses of hear taken as many as twenty glasses of beer during a single visit to a saloon.
